THURSDAY MORNING, JANUARY 31, 1867.

But the victor had gone from this turbulent world fre the fing that he cherished forever was furled; And the standard and here shall be in one grave, As an emblem of justice, the true and the brave!

No drums were e'en rauffied, no martial array Conducted the warrior where last he shall lay, But the herald of time shall trumpet afar The name of great Johnston, the hero of war!

Dear kindred and friends, oh comfort now seek, And the tear that will linger, ah, brush from your cheek, Fr though in his grave, he rests silently now, Yet a wreath of pure laurels encirples his brow.

Bleep, patriot, who answered thy country's first call, And for honor and freedom so nobly did tall: Though thy body now moulders, yet still lives thy name, Which the breezes shall waft to the temple of fame. FIDES. SPEECH OF EX-GOVERNOR PARSONS,

OF ALABAMA. We learn from the Montgomery correspondent of the Mobile Advertiser that Ex-Governor Pansors delivered an address before the Legislature of Alabama, on the 25th instant, pursuant to a joint resolution of both Houses. The following is reported to be an outline of the Governor's re-

Taking strong ground against the ratification of the constitutional amendment, he said that if it was adopted, under its operation all laws passed by State Legislatures would be subject to the approval of Congress. The gravest consequences would turn upon the action of the Southern States. The object of the Radicals was to enfranchise the negroes. If suffrage was not allowed them, they would contend it was an abridgment of the privi-leges and immunities of citizens of the United leges and immunities of citizens of the United States. He argued in strong and forcible language in support of the position, that all political power—the right to make laws and the right to execute them—should be alone vested in the superior race. The black race will adhere to each other, and the contest for political power would be a fearful ore for us and our children. The Radical majority of Congress opposed any distinction as to race or color. If their policy succeeds there might be a for us and our content.

Congress opposed any distinction as to race or color. If their policy succeeds there might be a war of sections, and a war of races will be imminent, and we would see the full measure of danger of that astutely worded amendment. The constitutional amendment was proposed and adopted in secret session, passed through Congress with closed doors; there was no time afforded for debate or deliberation. The motives of the Radicals in adopting it were not made known, except so far as they were disclosed in the report of the majority. as they were disclosed in the report of the majority. The idea of the Radicals was that the conquered were at the nercy of the conquerors. The doctrine of despotism goes no further than that. He believed they violated their oaths to support the Constitution of the United States. There was no constitution of the United States. There was no authority to impose penalties on a State, especially those of an ex post fac.o character.

The great desire of him who rules the helm of State was, that he might be able to maintain the position which he has so manfully taken, and whose policy, if successful, would save us from wild anarchy and ruin.

Our purpose in successful

Our purpose in swearing fealty to the Consti-tution, he said, was not that the party having power can violate its sacred provisions at will. Such a course would allow a mere political party to construe the Constitution, and make it an en-gine of oppression. Its name would be used, but tis reality would be gone. The third clause of the amendment would operate unjustly. It would disfranchise original secessionists and the Union distrancinse original secessionists and the original man who opposed the war. The people of the Southern States would never find it in their power to control their own internal affairs. All man, it to control their own internal analysis. In his is true, could vote, even if they could not hold office, and they would vote for men representing their views, and this would be an additional reason why the hitter feelings which had existed between the two sections would be continued.

In this connection, the speaker alluded in terms of withering sarcasm to those men who called themselves unconstitutional Union men, and maintained that they were better Union men than any

The restortes.

The intention of the Radicals was to pass an Enabling Act for the Southern States—not the Territorial Bill, as many supposed—but an Enabling Act, under the operations of which State Governments are to be inaugurated in the South and all excluded from voting who cannot take the test oath, or the oath to be prescribed in the Enabling Act. If this act was passed negroes and white men who can vote will elect members to Conventions and inaugurate the State Governments, which will be controlled by these men; and the practical operation of it will be that a state of things similar to that existing in the State of Tennessee will be inaugurated, where the government is controlled by a very small proportion of the voting population.

He believed that the President would be able to sustain himself, and trusted that he would receive the support of enough true men at the North to difficulties. It was our true policy to adhere to the letter and spirit of the Constitution. We should maintain the relations into which we had contend with the United States Government in good faith. He knew of no better way of reinstating the State in all its former political relations to the United States Government, than by observing good faith and correlying fully with the oath we had taken to support the Constitution of the United States. He said we should learn wisdom and self-control from our past history. He counselled an adherence to the noble stand which has been taken by the Legislature in rejecting the constitutional amendment. There was no occasion for the Legby the Legislature in rejecting the constitutional amendment. There was no occasion for the Legislature to furnish the dagger with which to stab its own poople, and in this connection he quoted the lines of Byron, referring to the death of the poet, Kirke White:

oet, hirke white:

"So the struck eagle, stretched upon the plain,
No more through rolling clouds to soar again,
Views his own feather on the fatal dark,
And winged the shaft that quivered in his heart,
Keen were his pangs, but keener far to feel
He nursed the pinion which impelled the steel.
Whilst the same plumage that had war ned his nest
Drank the last life-drop of his bleeding breast."

Drank the last life-drop of his bleeding breast."

The speaker argued forcibly in favor of meting out full justice for the black population, and eulogized their good conduct towards the Southern people during the war. There should be but one law and one penalty for its violation, for white and black. If this was not done, we reap the bitter consequences of a refusal. Negro suffrage would be forced upon us, and the scenes which devastated St. Domingo re-enacted in our mids. He urged that all laws should be faithfully executed. There was no use to pass laws which were allowed to remain a dead letter on our statute books. It was the duty of every man to see the vagrant law to remain a dead letter on our statute books. It was the duty of every man to see the vagrant law faithfully executed. He referred to the vagrant law, and said it was unjust in its operations against our black population, and fornished a weapon which was used effectively against us by our enemies.

The Northern papers state that in some portions of Alabama men with black faces go at dead of night and steal from negroes, and burn their cabins, and leave by the light of the fiames they kindle. The negro school houses, established to aid in their development and enlightenment, are burnt down. This, he said, was a foul blot on our people, and he denounced it in the strongest terms. It wlessness must be put down or the United States Government would put it down in such a manner as will be unpleasant to us. He alluded in terms of the strongest denunciation to improper articles which frequently appeared in the Southern papers, and said that they worked great injury to the Southern people. he Southern people.

SOMETHING ABOUT DIAMONDS.—All the diamonds found in Brazil were thrown away until a Portu-guese merchant, who was visiting the gold wash-ing, unexpectedly found a diamond of immense guese merchant, who was visiting the gold washing, unexpectedly found a diamond of immense value among the heaps of gravel and sand thrown aside. Keeping his counsel, he continued his search for a week, and found enough to bring him four million dollars when he got home. Fearing to return, he sent his brother back, who was equally successful, but being suspected of something wrong by the crewn officers, he was arrested and put in prison, upon which he confessed his mission, gave up his booty, and was taken to Portugal, where he was liberated by the King. The whole district was now ordered to be rewashed for diamonds. It yielded from fourteon to twenty thousand ounces per annum, at least four fifth which were inferior quality, and used thousand to many years ago to been employed. ABERDEEN THE GREATEST ENVELOPE-MAKING CITY IN THE WORLD .- A writer in an English journal, describing the manufactures of Aberdeen, says: "The Aberdenians would seem to be scarcely less celebrated for the manufacture of paper than they are for granite ships and combs. Few might be inclined to believe that one million of superfine envelopes are made daily in this remote region of the kingdom. But in addition to this, one firm manufactures fifty tons of writing-paper a week. At their mills at Stoneywood, in the vicinity of Aberdeen, and at the Union Works (the envelope department), in the city itself, the, give employment to somewhere about two thousand persons, and as far as regards envelopes, the great propor-tion of which are folded and stamped by machine-ry, the Prices are believed to be the greatest

Some Particulars of the Fire in Lagrange.—
From a private letter received in this city yesterday, we get some particulars of the late fire in Lagrange. It seems that the fire occurred about 9 o'clock, and by 11 the antire west side of the public square was in ruins. We did not a scertain in what building the are originated, but learn that, with the exception of Dr. Morrison's stock of drugs, the good, were nearly all saved without a great doal of lamage. It was at one time thought that sover a residences in rear of the stores, together with the Baptist Church, which is on the north set corner of the public square, would certainly be destroyed; but by the heroulean offorts of the citizens these were saved.

It was thought that there was considerable insurance on the property destroyed, but of course we could not ascertain the names of parties, nor the amount of insurance.—Atlanta New Era.

Remarkable.—The Cuthbert Appeal of yesterday says: "Our community participated in rather a remarkable ceremony on Wednesday evening—the burial of a man and his wife in the same grave. Our follow-citizen Mr. John Landrum and his wife died on the day previously within fire hours of each other. Such things may and do take place in case of epidemics, but are very rare in their absence, as in this instance. At one fell swoop the angel of death harvested the united heads of a family, leaving one son, "the lone scion of his father's house."

GENEROUS DONATION.—We were told yesterday of a generous donation, worthy of highest praise and mention, to the poor of Columbus, by a young Kentuckian. A few days since he sent $1000 to Mr. F. J. Mott, son of Colonel Mott, of this city. and directed that it should be applied to the relief and directed that it should be applied to the first of the needy of Columbus, and especially to the families of the Confederate soldiors who had been killed or disabled in the late revolution. The donor is Mr. J. W. Hunt Reynolds, of Frankiort, Ky. He was for a while a fellow student with Mr. Mott at was for a while a fellow student with Mr. Mott at Heidelberg, Germany. Some families have already exporienced the benefit of his bounty, and the gift will be disposed of judiciously and as the giver intended. Kentucky and Maryland have greatly aided the distressed and impoverished of our section, but we have no yet heard of one donation which equals or exceeds the one we have mentioned. Honor to the generous!—Sun.

THE TVENTIDE.—As we predicted in our last issue, the bark Eventide, Park master, loaded with lumber, from the mills of Gen. Birge, on the Satilla, was wrecked on the Pelican Shoals, at the mouth of that river, The bark and cargo were sold at public outery, in this city, on Monday, and brought $1800.—Bruns wick Courier, January 25. The Admiral was gotten off and is now at anchor near the city, making about twelvo inches of water an hour. It is presumed she will be condemned and sold.—Ibid.

DEATH OF OLD CITIZEN.—The LaGrange Report-or, of yesterday, notices the death of Mr. Wiley Alford, one of the oldest citizens of that place, which occurred the previous week. He was 75 years of age.

LEGAL.—The Macon Journal and Messenger, of the 25th, says: "The novel case alluded to in our paper of yesterday as before the Superior Court, in which re-payment of a debt which had been contracted in Confederate scrip was demanded; came to a conclusion on the same day. The jury dismissed the case, directing each party to pay an equal proportion of the costs."

EXTENSION OF THE GULF ROAD.—We are gratified to learn that matters have been arranged to secure the completion of the Atlantic and Gulf Railroad to Bainbridge, in Decatur county, at an Railroad to Bambridge, in Decatur county, at an early day. A friend in that place, writing us on the 23d instant, says: "The railroad meeting yesterday was a success—$15,00J were subscribed on the spot, and $15,000 more promised. The grand jury recommended $50,000 by the county, and the City Council of Bainbridge will take $50,000 more. This will secure the road at once."

THE ROME, GA., PRISONERS.—Our paper, on Sunday morning, contained a statement of the arrest of several gentlemen of Rome, Ga. The party, for in number, resolved this city or Sunday and or day morning, contained a satesime of the party, for several gentlemen of Rome, Ga. The party, five in number, reached this city on Sunday, under guard, and now re nain in confinement at the barracks of the Federal garrison, on the city limits. Their names are as follows: R. F. Hutchings, L. T. Mitchell, M. J. Pate, H. P. Wells, and W. S. Gibbons, all of them of our sister town of Rome. The head and front of their offending, we are told, was in being secessory to the display of a Confederate flag at an exhibition given in the above town. The arrest was made by General Thomas, at the instance of the agent of the Freedmen's Bureau, of Rome, with instructions that they shall remain in the custody of the commandant of this post until further orders. We saw the prisoners yesterday, and, for the information of their friends, can state that their creature comforts have been looked after, while at the hands of Captain Mills, of this after, while at the hands of Captain Mills, of this garrison, they will receive none other than that treatment which a true soldier so well understands restrison, they will receive none other than that restment which a true soldier so well understands and but for the difficulty in making shipments, would be very active, as there are plenty of orders from the South for Bacon. MEETING AT THE SECOND AFRICAN BAPTIST MEETING AT THE SECOND AFRICAN BAPTIST OHURCH.—Quite a large concourse of people were, last evening, assembled in this church to listen to addresses from several individuals upon the subject of the recent "exodus" of colored persons from this State to Florida. After the usual introductory exercises a few remarks were made by a white man, who gave a glowing picture of the fertility and prosperity of Florida, and the great advantages it presents to the colored race as an abiding place.

The anuouncement that the notorious Aaron A. Bradley would address the audionce undoubtedly drew quite a number of colored people to the church, who were curious to see the "would-be Moses" of their raco—he that, like Head Centre Stephens, had promised much but done little. Bradley, in his usual modest way, arose, and, in a tayyeart said.

taugent, said: "Ladies and Gentlemen: I am sorry, very sorry indeed, for having had anything to do with this meeting. I was decoyed into it. I have lately been to Washington, and I came here to-night to report to you—to give you my views in regard to lands in Florida. I find, however, that a certain person (nodding his head in the direction of a white man who sat near him) has dictated to me, white man who sat near him) has dictated to me, or attempted to dictate to me, what I shall say upon this question to-night—what words I shall speak about this matter of labor. MILITARY GONE.—Thomasville is once more evacuated by the United States forces, and the town is now restored to its usual quiet. About a dozen soldiers, attached to the Freedmen's Bureau, drinking and carousing, cursing and swear-ing in the Court House, where they made their headquarters, have kept the town in an uproar for several months, and required all the vigilance of several months, and required all the vigilance of the authorities to keep them in subordination. At last they received orders, and left on the train Wednesday morning. If it should over be found necessary to send more soldiers here, we sincerely hope a better class will be selected. But there never will be any necessity for soldiers to keep this community quiet as long as the civil authorities are untrammelled, and not even then, if the citizens are left to themsevers.

MANHOOD AND THE VIGOR OF YOUTH
M restored in four weeks, by Dr. RICORD'S ESSENCE OF LIFE. Dr. Ricord (of Paris), after years of earest solicitation, has at length acceded to the earnest requests of the American public, and appointed an Agent in New York for the sale of his valued and highly-prized Essence of Life. This wonderful agent will restore manhood to the most shattered constitutions, whether arising from excesses, the effects of climate, or natural causes. The time required to cure the most inveterate case is four weeks; and if used according to printed instructions, which are very simple, failure is impossible. This liferestoring requedy should be taken by all about to marry, as its effects are permanent. It is acknowledged by the medical press to be the greatest discovery ever made.
Its developing powers are miraculous. Success in every case is as certain as that science overthrows ignorance.

Letter of Rev. E. F. CRANZ, Chaplain of the 107th New York Regiment:

NEAR ACQUIA CHEEK, March 4th, 1863. Owing to the great exposure and terrible decomposi-tion after the battle of Antistam, I was utterly prostrated and very sick. My stomach would not retain medicine. An article called Plantation Bitters, prepared by Dr. DRAKE, of New York, was prescribed to give me strength and an appetite. To my great surprise they gave me immediate relief. Two bottles almost allowed me to join my regiment. . . . I have since seem them used in many cases, and am free to say, for hospital or private purposes I know of nothing like them. Rev. E. F. CRANE, Chaplain.
